Azaleas

Few plants adapted to the South offer such a riot of color as Azaleas. Practically all of the famous Southern gardens have depended on Azaleas for that gorgeous mass of color that only Azaleas can give. Many of our Southern soils are well adapted to their growing. Given a slightly acid, loose soil, well supplied with humus, Azaleas are easy to grow.

You'll get lots of pleasure from our assortment of Azaleas. Strong, vigorous, two year old plants, they already have bloom buds set and should blossom for you next spring. Never before have we offered these fine plants at this low price. Colors: lavender, pink, red. Place your order now at—

PECANS

Whether your home is on a small city lot or a large farm, a few pecan trees around it will add beauty and at the same time furnish pecans for home use. Pecan trees are a fine investment, both for the large farmer and the city dweller. Each can grow them to advantage. Many homes in Cairo get enough revenue from the pecan trees on the building lot to pay all the taxes on the property.

The experience of 54 years as pecan nurserymen goes into every pecan tree we sell. We are familiar with all pecan producing sections of the south and know what varieties give best results in each locality. If you leave the selection of pecan varieties to us, we will furnish that variety or varieties which will be best for you.

We have trees from 2 feet to 10 feet high, but for this special introductory offer, we are quoting only a medium sized tree, probably the most popular of all sizes.

A Wight specialty since 1887

Fifty-four years serving Southern Growers . . .

For fifty-four years, Wight Nurseries have been serving Southern planters by supplying nursery stock . . . the best that could be grown. During these fifty-four years, many thousands of people have been supplied with fine fruit trees and fine pecan trees, roses and azaleas . . . all that wide group of plants adapted to our Southland.

We want many more thousands to know the excellence of Wight-grown nursery stock, many more to have the thrill of producing their own pecan nuts, of cutting their own rose blossoms, of seeing their own home grounds grow beautiful with Wight-grown plants.

To induce you to try our trees and plants, we have made these especially low prices. These prices must be discontinued when our new 1941 catalogue becomes effective Nov. 1. Send in your order now so the stock can be reserved for you. Your order will be acknowledged promptly and shipped to you at the proper time for transplanting this fall.
